Resolutions

Today I heard that 91% of the population report that they make no New Year resolution. Can that be due to our inability to think of anything we may want to improve on or it is too difficult to keep resolutions or have we used up all of the resolutions available? All of the above? Just to shake things up a bit, here are a few that may be worth considering.

Resolve to

- read something different from your normal genre
- give a book as a gift
- write a (very) short story and share it
- experience a story in a different format
- take doughnuts to your library staff
- donate time/money to a reading program
- join Goodreads
- (re)read a classic
- don't judge a book by its cover
- choose your 7 fav authors and decide why you like them
- suggest a book to someone
- give an author a second chance

May 2020 be blessed with stories that move you!

Kindle Library

Another option for borrowing books! If you are an Amazon Prime member and have a Kindle device, you can borrow books from Amazon Prime Reading. You are allowed up to 10 books and can exchange each when returned to Amazon library. It's a benefit included with your Prime membership.
